
THE CONTRIBUTORS

EDNA LUZ C. RAYMUNDO-ABULON, a full-time faculty researcher at the Center for Research and Development in Education, PNU, is pursuing a doctorate in Psychology at UP Diliman. She holds a Master of Arts in Psychology, also from UP Diliman. Much earlier, she obtained her other Master's Degree in Educational Measurement and Evaluation from PNU. Before serving at PNU, she worked for 12 years as a Human Resource Management Officer in UP Manila and held a Clinical Psychologist position at the Dangerous Drugs Board for 4 years.

TERESITA TABBADA-RUNGUIN, faculty of the Early Childhood Education Department, College of Education, is a doctoral student (candidate) at UP, Diliman. Her research interest focuses on forgiveness, grief, self-regulation, cognitive and language, development and assessment cutting across the lifespan. She has been teaching in the Philippine Normal University for the past 10 years and has actively involved in related academic pursuits.

ABRAHAM "ABE" FELIPE (AB, cum laude, and MA from the UP; MS and PhD, Yale University) was a former Professor of Psychology from the University of the Philippines. Abe was President of the FAPE (Fund for Assistance to Private Education) 1974 to 1992, the PERAA (Private Education Retirement Annuities Association) (1978-1990) and the Center for Educational Measurement (1976-88). He is credited for conceptualizing the ESC, the subject of the present article. He served as Deputy Minister of Education and Culture from 1979 to 1986.

CAROLINA C. PORIO, currently, Executive Director of the Fund for Assistance to Private Education (FAPE), the agency that continues to provide assistance to private schools in the country. She has committed 35 years of her professional life in the service of private education in the Philippines, selflessly serving the sector in various capacities: Classroom Teacher, High School Principal, Graduate School Faculty, Masteral Program Director, and Graduate School Registrar of the De La Salle University, where she earned her MA in Educational Management. She was recently conferred an honorary degree of Doctor of Pedagogy by the University of Luzon.

As Chief Executive Officer of FAPE, a position she has held since 1998, she finds fulfillment in managing programs of assistance to the private school sector including the implementation of the Educational Service Contracting scheme or ESC and the Education Voucher System (EVS) programs which are now worth 4.5B and FAPE's scholarship programs that helped over 4,000 teachers earn their masters' degree or doctorate and over 30,000 teacher participants in upgrading or non-degree program.

GUILLERMO Q. ROMAN, JR., Dean, College of Arts and Social Sciences, 2008 to date, is Professor in Philippine Studies. He holds a doctorate in educational administration and a master's degree in language and literature from PNU. He earned a certificate in Sociology and Culture in a training course sponsored by CHED, UP, ADMU, and Philippine Social Science Research Council (1997), and a certificate in Bahasa Malaysia (with honors) from the University of Malaya, Kuala Lumpur (1983), where he had served as senior lecturer for eleven years (1978-1989). Before his deanship, he served as Director of the PNU Press (2002-2006). He has authored and co-authored books and articles in social sciences, language and education and has presented papers in national and international conferences. His research interest lies in exploring the nuances of being a Filipino.

ARTHUR S. ABULENCIA, a faculty of the Social Science Department, College of Arts and social Sciences, obtained his Master of Arts in Education, major Educational Management at PNU-Manila. He is now pursuing a postgraduate program leading to PhD in Sociology at the University of the Philippines-Diliman. He holds an academic rank of Assistant Professor I and handles undergraduate courses in introductory sociology, economics, philosophy and foundations of education.

RAMER V. OXIÑO, a full-time faculty–researcher at the Center for Research and Development in Education (CREDE) and an affiliate faculty of the Department of English, College of Languages, Linguistics and Literature (CLLL) and Department of Professional Education, College of Education (CED), finished his bachelor’s degree (BSE English, cum laude) at Capiz State University. He pursued a master’s degree (MAT ELA) at PNU, Manila.

MARIA ARCILLA ORENDAIN served both as the University Librarian of PNU since 2006 and a faculty member of the Library and Information Science Department College of Languages, Linguistics and Literature from 1983 till her retirement this 2010. Rising from the ranks, Dr. Orendain started her profession as an elementary grade teacher and a school librarian in Virac, Catanduanes, her hometown. She transferred to the Division of City Schools, Manila and was appointed as a school librarian for ten years, before transferring to the Foreign Service Institute as a Senior Librarian in 1982, but opted to return to her alma mater (PNC) in 1983. She was actively involved in professional organizations like the Philippine Association of Teachers of Library Science (PATLS) and became President of the Association in 2001.

V. LÁZARO MENDIOLA, first Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, PNU has retired from government service after 43 years of teaching. With a doctorate in literature, meritissimus, from the University of Santo Tomas, he still actively engages in writing – a preoccupation that gives him a sense of fulfillment.